

The Highest Law: Standards of Practise

1) Vision Statement

The Highest Law (THL) is a self-development technique for rebalancing karma, that effectively resolves karmic conflicts and contracts on the level of the soul. Its goal is to improve all aspects of the life of the User in the here and now, including the material, physical, mental, and emotional aspects.

We don't claim to know whether karma exists or not. The process itself can also be viewed as working on symbols and metaphors using mindfulness based on the law of attraction.

A person who uses the technique on themselves is called 'User', a person who supports someone else in their process is called 'Guide'.

The User takes full responsibility for their choices and actions. The User does the work, and can be supported by the Guide in their process. We as Guides are not trying to "save" anyone. We acknowledge everyone as being capable of walking their own path.

We as Users and Guides are not trying to change the world, the world doesn't need changing. We are not trying to lead people anywhere as a movement. It is not a mission.

THL is an independent modality, but it can be combined with other alternative healing modalities. We promote mutually beneficial cooperation with others. THL isn't affiliated with nor does it represent any religions or philosophies.

Using THL requires continuous holistic work on oneself. We aim to accept ourselves fully, regardless of what we discover about ourselves in the process. We acknowledge the importance of reaching out for assistance if the process requires an outside perspective or insight.

We believe that karma is not absolute. There's always a way to make things easier and more efficient.

I am the soul and the soul is me.

6) Relationship to the THL Technique

The Guides are to acknowledge that their services and actions influence the reputation of the technique, therefore they have an obligation to abstain from actions that would put THL into jeopardy.

If you use THL in your session with the client, we require you to inform the client that you have used this modality.

We recommend naming all the modalities that you use during your session.

Informing the client should be done in a sensible manner that doesn't break the flow or disturb the client. We recommend doing it by the beginning or the end of the session, or in an email conversation before/after the session.

If clients' cultural or religious dogma don't follow the principles of THL, the Guide may modify the technique accordingly. You can use it as a metaphor for working with the subconscious mind.

For practical reasons, the Users and Guides can modify the THL technique during their sessions on themselves or their clients. If you modify the technique, we require you to inform the client that you are using a modified version of THL.

General updates of the technique in the scope of your training (if there will be any) will be provided by the Authors or designated Instructors.

Sharing of the THL materials in any form requires written permission of the Authors.

Upon finishing the course, the participants do not receive a certificate. There will however be a process of verification for the Guides. Verification will result in being listed on the official THL webpage. Verification is not a part of the official event and is up to every individual participant.

Only an Instructor certified by the Authors can teach THL, be it the whole process or parts of it. Including any part of THL in your lectures, materials, workshops, trainings or books will be seen as a violation and may result in legal action.
